Ceremonial Squadron Recruitment

The Ceremonial Squadron (C Sqn) is now inviting all cadet members to join us either by way of transfer (primary duty) or attachment (secondary duty). C Sqn is a field unit in the Training Group. We are responsible for dual roles, i.e. operational and ceremonial. As one of the measures in developing drill and ceremonial, the Corps has entrusted C Sqn to provide training to corps members for 'Drill and Ceremonial' duties.

Normal Operational Role

2. Alike all other cadet squadrons, C Sqn accommodates cadet members and provides them trainings (e.g. aviation, expedition, discipline) and activities (visit, camping, community service).

Ceremonial Role

3. C Sqn is also a functional unit in the aspect of 'Drill and Ceremonial'. It is responsible for mounting guard of honour and parading the Corps Colour in significant ceremonial events (e.g. Annual Parade). Apart from Guard of Honour, C Sqn is also deployed for drill display in public events. Continuity Drill Display is the common form of drill display of C Sqn. It features a series of drill movements, in phase with the background music and without any spoken word of command.

Cadet Members of C Sqn

4. Currently, C Sqn consists of cadet members of two types: primary members and attachment members. Primary members are those who serve in C Sqn as their primary duty. They are responsible for all operations of C Sqn. Attachment members are those who serve in other units and volunteer to serve in C Sqn as their secondary duty. Attachment members are normally deployed to take part in the ceremonial role of C Sqn. All members of Ceremonial Squadron are expected to participate in training and deployments as listed below:

- a. Ceremonial Squadron Annual Training (usually in summer holiday)
- b. National Day flag raising ceremony at Hong Kong Museum of Coastal Defence
- c. May 4th Youth Festival Flag Raising Ceremony at Golden Bauhinia Square
- d. Remembrance Sunday Parade at Cenotaph
- e. Ceremonial deployment at Corps level activities, or as invited by government departments or organization
